Body Snatchers, Tombstone Thieves Meet Colma Police Reserves Head-on

BY TERRY DAVENPORT

The fabled body snatcher of the Colma cemeteries was shocked when a man leaped into the crypt he was exploring one inky night and grabbed him.

The fraternity brothers speeding down El Camino Real with five granite tombstones in their truck were stunned when a black-and-white car suddenly nudged them off the road.

The man stealing supplies from an auto repair shop was flabbergasted when he was confronted by a man in a blue uniform.

All of these people would have been even more surprised had they known that they weren't arrested by regular police officers.

The men in uniform who prevented these crimes were reserve officers of the Colma Police Department. They dress like regular officers, in some cases they have the same training as full-time officers, but they aren't paid a dime.

Colma Police Chief Jim Dorris came up with the idea of having reserves in 1976 as a back-up for his regular crew. The City Council enthusiastically approved the idea.

Since then the department has maintained a staff of about 10 reserve officers that concentrates on writing parking tickets, patrolling the city and assisting the city's seven regular officers.

They are a welcome sight to an officer who finds himself trying singlehandedly to break up a bar brawl or arrest several men twice his size.

Occasionally they are used on stake outs, as in the case of the grave robber.

At other times they are the first at the scene of a crime.

Reserve Officer Mark Fontana is the reserve officer who stopped a burglary in progress at an auto repair shop in unincorporated Colma.

"I think Colma has the best reserve program of any police department in San Mateo County, he said. "They give us more responsibility, most of us ride alone in patrol cars and we're treated with respect. Colma's program is one of the best."

Another big selling point is that Colma reserve officers wear the same uniforms as regular officers. The only difference is that they have silver badges instead of gold ones.

Since wrong-doers aren't likely to

D.C. Again Delays Moving of Houses

Four Daly City houses got reprieves from the wrecker's ball Monday night when the City Council voted to postpone the clearing of Lincoln Park a little longer.

To keep other projects rolling along, the council approved the spending of $50,000 more on the Mussel Rock dump site and increased the ceiling for residential rehabilitation loans from $10,000 to $15,000.

The completion of Lincoln Park in the Crocker section of Daly City has been a thorn in the council's side for so long that two councilmen — Mayor William Schumacher and James Tucker — voted to demolish two houses in order to clear the land more quickly.

They were outvoted 3-2 by other council members who said they thought the city should make every effort to sell the homes before destroying them.

City Attorney Albert Polonsky said the earliest the city might sell the homes, which are located at 941 and 985 Brunswick St., is in two months.

The owners of the homes then would have time to move them to a different location. During the many delays that some owners have encountered in getting permits to locate the houses in different cities, some of the homes have been vandalized. One was burned down.

Schumacher said in an exasperated voice, "We're maintaining a nuisance in that area while these people are getting permits. So we maybe make $2,000 — meanwhile, we're maintaining a criminal congregation that drives the neighbors bananas."

Schumacher and Tucker agreed with the other council members to allow the owners of houses at 973 Brunswick St. and 201 Templeton St. another two weeks before possibly beginning demolition proceedings.

Schumacher admonished Alba Anderson for stripping and jacking up the house at 201 Templeton St. before he had finished paying the city for it. Anderson promised to hand over the balance of $1,800 this week.

Another seemingly endless project, the building of a garbage transfer station at Mussel Rock, got a $50,000 shot in the arm from the council when City Manager David Rowe reported that more money is needed to continue construction.

He said the capital budget includes funds for the necessary work, which includes slope grading, repairing rain damage, rocking the access road, installing corrugated metal pipe and installing gas monitoring wells.

The Regional Water Quality Control Board originally gave Daly City an Oct. 31, 1978 deadline for completing the grading, stabilizing of the earth and closing of the dump at Mussel Rock.

When that date passed, WQCB

Henry Doelger Boulevard?

Wow, Did That Start a Fuss

Judging from the reaction Al Belotz got at Monday night's Daly City City Council meeting, one would have thought he had proposed starting World War III.

All the Daly City resident had suggested was renaming John Daly Boulevard to Henry Doelger Boulevard, in memory of the well-known developer of Westlake who died last year.

Belotz explained, "By renaming this boulevard, it would affect the least number of businesses of any street in Daly City. Furthermore, I think having a city named after John Daly is more than sufficient in honoring this great man."

After describing Doelger's many contributions to churches, schools and civic groups in Daly City, the long-time friend of Doegler's said, "I have talked to many people and they were amazed the council did not start this on its own."

Mayor William Schumacher replied that the council had thought about it, but couldn't decide the best way to honor Doegler.

The reason for the council's indecision soon became clear, as speakers from the audience stampeded to the microphone.

Conrad Pavellas of the Original Daly City Protective Association objected to the renaming of the portion of John Daly Boulevard that runs through the city's oldest area. He suggested renaming a newer Daly City street instead, perhaps one which Doelger had created himself.

Belotz replied that renaming John Daly Boulevard would be a good way to unite the new and old portions of the city.

"I am tired of hearing about old Daly City and young Daly City. They are one and the same," Belotz said.

Ernest Pezzola proposed changing the name of Westlake Shopping Mall to Henry Doelger Mall.

Another resident asked the council to change John Daly

Police Higher-Ups Win Pact, Quietly

Daly City's police captains and lieutenants reached agreement with the city on a 1978-79 contract without any of the public spats that characterized the other police contract ratified recently by the City Council.

The city's patrolmen and sergeants still are grumbling about the fact that the council refused to compromise on any of the disputed points in their contract after a long, stormy public hearing on the subject.

In contrast, there wasn't a whimper Monday night as the council unanimously approved a contract for police captains and lieutenants.

The contract provides that:

• The rank differential between the top step for sergeants and the top step for lieutenants will be increased from 12.99 percent to 14.55 percent.

• The rank differential between the top step for lieutenants and captains will be raised from 11.97 percent to 13 percent.

• The funds for the differentials will be placed in a trust fund until July 15. If it is illegal at that time to distribute the money toward differentials, it will be funneled into other benefits.

The change in differential pay amounts to a 5.5 percent increase in the salary base for captains and lieutenants — the same percentage the city's officers and sergeants won in their contract.

Both contracts are retroactive to July 1, 1978. Negotiations were delayed by Proposition 13's passage, which made it difficult to determine the amount of funding available.

Ironically, the city is due to begin its negotiations soon on 1979-80 contracts for employees.

spot the difference, reserve officers command the same authority as other officers.

In some other police departments on the Peninsula, reserve officers are issued uniforms of a different color.

The Colma reserve program is so popular that Dorris has a waiting list of five persons.

But the chief's standards are high. After they complete 225 hours of classroom training and 200 hours of in-service training, he requires his reserve officers to work 20 hours per month and attend training sessions totalling at least six hours each month — all at no pay.

Why would anyone put in such grueling hours for no money?

Fontana explained, "All of us enjoy police work. It's really the highest form of public service you can do for a community."

Another reserve officer, Carl Tromborg said, "Some people like to get involved in Little League. This is what I like."

One of his accomplishments on duty was saving a woman's life by using cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

Tromborg and Fontana enjoy working as reserve officers so much they usually work twice and sometimes three times the number of required hours each month, despite the fact that both — like all of Colma's reserve officers — have full-time jobs.

Fontana, who resides in South San Francisco, is the shop foreman of a monument business in Colma. Tromborg, a Pacifica resident, works for a Daly City plumbing firm.

And then there's J. Wayne Johnson, a Broadmoor resident who was part of that unincorporated area's reserves until he was elected a Broadmoor police commissioner and the district attorney ruled he couldn't serve as a commissioner and reserve officer for the same department.

In addition to working full-time as a telephone company supervisor and part-time as a security guard, Johnson has worked nearly 2,000 hours for the Colma Police Department since he joined Colma's reserves in July 1976. A regular officer works 2,080 hours per year.

The chief said Johnson also has brought in $3,500 to the department in the last two years from tickets he's written for parking and moving violations.

Johnson explained that he's able to accomplish all this on an average of two hours of sleep per night.

In his many waking hours, Johnson has prevented several burglaries in progress. He was the officer who caught the fraternity brothers with five grave markers in their car.

Johnson also has had his share of heart-pumping experiences in Colma's cemeteries. On one routine patrol there, he found a grave decked with a bottle of champagne, a bouquet of red roses and some candles. Although the candles had just been lit, no one was in sight.

It was another Colma reserve officer, Eugene Tognetti, who caught Colma's body snatcher in August 1974 after hiding in a cemetery for three frightening nights. Tognetti now works as a police officer in Hillsborough.

Because of their liking for police work, many of Colma's reserves wind up as regular officers. Another one, Rick Rogers of Millbrae, just signed on with the San Bruno Police Department.

Fontana, Tromborg and Johnson figure they are the only reserve officers working for the department who don't want a regular police job.

Colma's other reserve officers include Mary Glass of Daly City, who works as a parking enforcement officer for the Daly City Police Department; Tony Koester of Redwood City, chief animal control officer withthe Peninsula Humane Society; Frank Verducci, Jr., of Hillsborough, who works in the retail car business in Daly City; Phillip Berlenghi of San Bruno, a limousine driver; and Anthony Campagna of Belmont, a Peninsula Humane Society animal control officer.

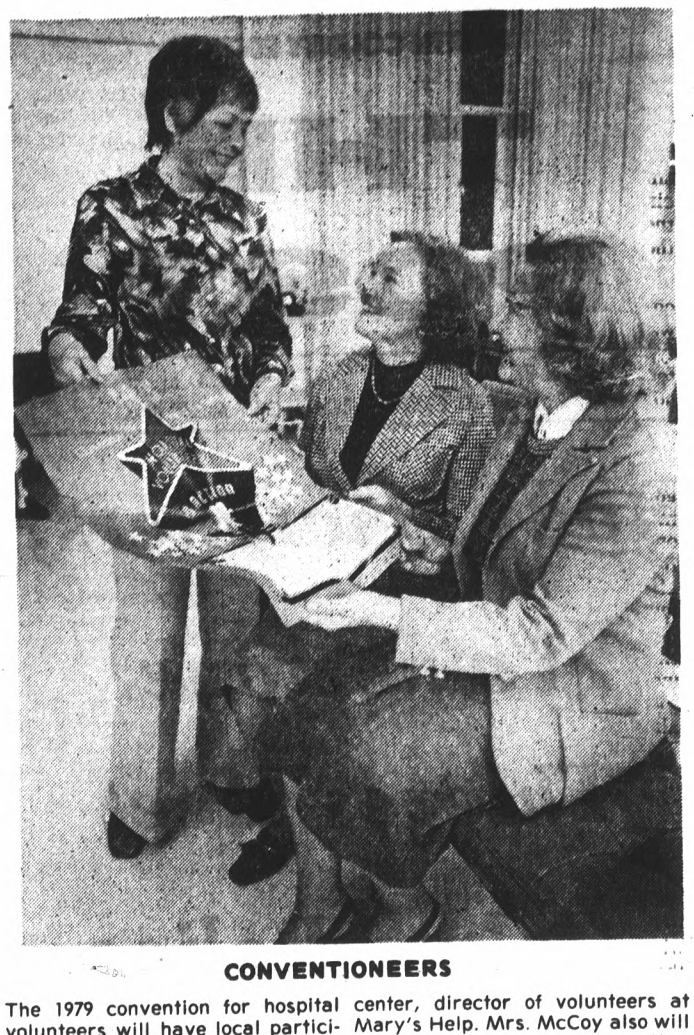
The other three reserve officers, David Cain of South San Francisco, Dan Cohen of Newark and Gordon Low, Jr., of San Francisco, all work as railroad security officers for Southern Pacific.

Interestingly, none of Colma's reserve officers reside in Colma.

Since they work mostly at night, rattling the doors of empty stores and patrolling cemeteries, most of Colma's residents don't even know they're there.

But the Colma Police Department does.

Chief Dorris said, "We couldn't really do our job here if it were not for our reserves."



CONVENTIONEERS

The 1979 convention for hospital volunteers will have local participants when it convenes in Los Angeles Feb. 25-27. Mary's Help Hospital Guild President Sarah Kelechava, right, and Vice President Jane Hillsman, left, will attend, as well as Mary McCoy, center, director of volunteers at Mary's Help. Mrs. McCoy also will moderate a special convention program for hospital directors. Former White House aide Midge Costanza will be the guest speaker at the Feb. 27 luncheon.

Gross Back With JUHSD

Dr. Robert Gross has come home again.

The 45-year-old Daly City native returned to the Jefferson Union High School District this week as associate superintendent for education after spending the past seven years with the Redwood City Elementary School District.

He recognizes many faces at the JUHSD district office and its six campuses, for Gross has spent 11 of his 21 years in education with the Daly City district.

Leaning back in his chair, staring thoughtfully at the wall of his tiny, windowless office, he chose his words carefully as he described his goals as the district's head of instruction, curriculum and special services.

"I want to provide a closer working relationship between district office personnel and school personnel. I think the district office, through necessity, has given a great deal of energy to the operation of the district and now we have to get our priorities straight and deal with education."

Gross attributes the recent teacher strike and other difficulties to taking the spotlight away from what goes on in the classroom.

He has no qualms about filling the $31,333 job that was eliminated for half a year when the district's finances were shaky, even though the local teacher's union criticized the restoration of the job last week as "an abuse of public funds."

Gross explained, "I think that the educational development of a district is the focus of any district. That's the business of any district. For the job to be vacated almost negates the emphasis that should be placed."

He said his immediate objective is to work as closely as possible with the staff, assessing what needs to be done and then setting priorities.

One of his responsibilities will be to help set graduation requirements and develop high school proficiency tests, as required by state law.

He's been digging into his new job with enthusiasm this week, visiting campuses and asking for ideas.

But Gross admitted that he was let down at his first school board meeting last Tuesday night.

"I was disappointed that Ernie's resignation was announced, because I had worked with him before and I was looking forward to working with him again," he said, referring to the May 1 departure date announced by Associate Superintendent Ernest Ribera.

Although his last job took him to the southernmost part of the county, Gross and his wife, Irene, could not bear to leave their Daly City home. Both have lived in Daly City all their lives.

Mrs. Gross has worked for the Jefferson High district for the past five years as a career resource center supervisor.

They have a 15-year-old son, Wayne, who attends St. Ignatius College Preparatory School in San Francisco.

"Want to know why he goes there? They teach theology and we don't," Gross explained.

Gross also attended St. Ignatius before earning a bachelor's degree in English, a master's in school administration and curriculum at the University of San Francisco and a doctorate in school administration at the University of California, Berkeley.

His first job was as a teacher in the Brisbane Elementary School District.

He later became an English teacher and, subsequently, department head at Terra Nova High School in Pacifica, then served as a counselor, assistant principal for guidance, the district's coordinator of projects and grants and as vice principal for instruction at Oceana High School, Pacifica.

Gross said he took a job as a junior high school principal with the Redwood City Elementary School District to add to the experience of a principalship to his background and to increase his familiarity with elementary education.

He was a district area administrator for the Redwood City district when he decided to return to the JUHSD.

Picking up the pieces of a job that has lain vacant for several months won't be easy, according to Superintendent Floyd Gonella, who said he is confident that Gross can do it.

"You see, I've worked with him before," he explained.

officials told the city they would not take any legal steps against Daly City as long as the work continues to the board's satisfaction.

In a rare moment of agreement, citizen Conrad Pavellas and Daly City rehabilitation loan officer Barbara Hill recommended that the council increase the limit on residential rehabilitation loans from $10,000 to $20,000. Ms. Hill said the recommendation came from the city's Residential Rehabilitation Advisory Committee.

Pavellas, an habitual critic of the city's rehabilitation progress, said he believes little can be done with $10,000 at today's construction costs.

"I find myself in total agreement with Mrs. Hill," he said.

Amidst the surprised gasps, Schumacher noted, "Mrs. Hill is in ecstasy." The audience laughed.

Pavellas later criticized the council for voting 5-0 to increase the limit to $15,000.

"What do you have an advisory committee for?...There's such a thing as being ultra-conservative," he said.

Schumacher replied, "There's another thing, called compromise."

In other business:

• The council learned that developer Thomas Safran, who wanted to build units for low-income residents at the intersection of Hyde Court and King Drive, now wants to build 34 condominiums at the site. Under his original plan, the owner would have received federal subsidies of up to 70 percent of rents anticipated at $500 per month for each of 42 apartments. He now hopes to sell the condominiums for $100,000 each.

• City Librarian Samuel Chandler informed the council in a letter that Serramonte Library soon will be open on Saturdays again.

• The council denied Ray Charette's request for a zone change that would have allowed him to build an apartment house at 33 Vale St., a street that has only single-family homes. Residents complained that the zone change would alter the character of their neighborhood.

• The city has received $13,143.08 from the county Housing Authority under an agreement that specifies the agency must pay 10 percent of collected rents, less utility charges, to the city from federal funds. The agency had informed that city that it didn't expect to be able to make a payment this year.

• The council passed a resolution urging the speedy construction of a safer, more convenient interchange at the junction of Freeway 101 and Route 92 at San Mateo.

Boulevard back to its original name, Alemany Boulevard. (A number of citizens objected strongly when the council slighted one of the first Catholic bishops, Bishop Alemany, by changing the street's name several years ago to honor Daly City's founder, John Daly.)

Eve Aiello said she thinks John Daly Boulevard's present name accomplishes the goal of uniting new and old Daly City.

When she first heard of Belotz's proposal last week, she commented, "If Mr. Doelger wanted something named after him, he certainly would have left something to be named after him."

At Schumacher's suggestion, the council referred the matter to the city's History, Arts and Science Commission and directed its staff to ask the Westlake Subdivision Improvement Association for a suggestion too.

Chuckling at the fury that the topic had unleashed, the mayor said, "Welcome to the political arena, Mr. Belotz."

Charges Dropped in Burlingame Case

The U.S. Attorney's office, which accused banker Amos Dawe of fraud and misuse of his funds after purchasing the Peninsula National Bank in Burlingame in 1975, is now attempting to dismiss all charges.

A motion to that end has been submitted to U.S. District Court Judge Stanley Weigel in San Francisco.

Dawe was scheduled for trial in that court, Feb. 12, on several charges of fraud.

Last week, Judge Weigel dismissed two of those charges, stating that "they did not disclose any unlawful activity."

Following that ruling, the U.S. Attorney's office submitted a motion to dismiss all remaining charges.

Dawe purchased the Burlingame bank in 1975. He then took over a number of other California's smaller banks.

Within months, Dawe was being accused of improperly using bank funds to support his other international business interests.

Dawe, 44, a Chinese Canadian, holds dual citizenship from Singapore and Thailand. He is said to have extensive business connections in the Far East.

He was indicted in July of 1976, and surrendered to federal officials last August.

At that time, federal officials said losses totaling $1.3 million had been recorded from banking funds Dawe controlled in this country.

By that time, Dawe had already sold all his interests in the Peninsula National Bank, according to bank officials.

Through his San Francisco attorney, Dawe made the following statement after learning that the U.S. Attorney's office had moved to drop charges:

"In August of 1978, I voluntarily came to the United States to answer those criminal charges brought against me by a grand jury in the Northern District of California.

"I was convinced that I could demonstrate to the court and the United States Attorney, that I had not, in fact, engaged in any criminal activity.

"My faith in the fairness of the American judicial system, has been vindicated.

"The office of the United States Attorney has handled the entire matter in a professional and fair manner, and is now, on its own motion, moving for dismissal of the remaining charges against me.

"This is especially gratifying after the judge dismissed two of the counts against me last week on the grounds that 'they did not disclose any unlawful activity.'

"I believe that this shows that the American system of justice guarantees that no man need be afraid of an American criminal court, if he has done no wrong.

"I would like to express my thanks to my attorneys for their great assistance in organizing and presenting a very complicated situation to the court and the U.S. Attorney.

"This is one of what I believe will be a series of court decrees throughout the world, vindicating my good name and opening the way to the future.

Valentine's Day Is a Natural Lead-in for Heart Month

By ARVILLE FINACOM

The sun beats down warm upon my back. The smell of violets scents the air. Aloft, high scudding cirrus clouds presage rain, perhaps even more of the snow that clogged routes into the higher hills at the beginning of the month.

Here, in the Bay Area, February is a month of contrasts, a time of winter chill as well as the warmth of what many call "false spring." It is typical Mediterranean weather and accounts in part for the mid-month celebration of one of our oldest holidays, St. Valentine's Day.

The custom of giving and receiving valentines goes back to Roman times, when as many as eight men with the name Valentine may have been the one whose actions gave rise to the popular legend of the priestly go-between who carried messages of affection between two young, imprisoned Christian lovers. There's no proof for the pleasing story. Nor is there proof for the conjecture by semanticists that the word "galatin," meaning "lover of women," once was written and pronounced "valatin." Add an "e" as a feminine ending and one almost has a "fact."

Legend and "fact" aside, recorded celebration of Valentine's Day as a day for lovers occurs in the Middle Ages. The English poet Chaucer speaks of it and expresses the then-common belief that all birds and small animals mated for the year on that day, often one of spring-like warmth. With a giant anthropomorphic step in reverse, Medieval man likewise chose his maiden for the season, the one on whom he would shower attention and adoration for the next twelvemonth.

Perhaps because of its not so subtle sexual emphasis, Valentine's Day was not celebrated by the pleasure-denying early New England settlers. But the custom did cross the Atlantic and was established firmly in our country by the time of the Revolution.

Valentine's Day gifts usually took the form of candy, bouquets of early spring flowers such as violets and crocus, or jewelry shaped fancifully as hearts. Personal valentine cards were composed, using gilt paper, real lace and words from a valentine "writer," a book containing ready-made verses for copying.

By the mid-19th century, paper valentines were being produced commercially and "mechanical" ones became popular. These were similar to today's "pop-up" cards but often were done in such exquisite detail that by their unfolding one displayed a scene not unlike a miniature stage set complete with side flats, drop drapes and flying cupids.

Comic or "vinegar" valentines originated in the United States about 100 years ago and were nicknamed "penny dreadfuls" — "They sold for a penny and their designs were dreadful." The idea survives today in what card manufacturers refer to as "slam" valentines. But frothy, pretty and sentimental or subtly snide, Americans take valentine greetings seriously. According to Hallmark Cards, more greetings are sold and sent than for any other holiday except Christmas.

Because of Valentine's Day emphasis on the heart, it's little wonder that February is declared annually as American Heart Month, a time when the American Heart Association makes its big public awareness and fund-raising push. Early this-month, San Mateo County Heart Association headquarters at 1848 El Camino Real in Burlingame bustled with busy volunteers making phone calls, charting neighborhoods and stuffing envelopes to be sent to the nearly 8,000 volunteer walkers who will canvass all residential areas in the county before the end of the month.

From Jean Rosa, 1979 San Mateo County Heart Fund campaign coordinator, I received the following information. Each walker, who will visit 10 to 15 homes — apartment dwellers will receive a special mailing — receives an information packet containing an identification label to wear, a couple of pages of background information to help him or her answer questions, receipts for tax-deductible contributions and donation envelopes to leave if a person is not home or if someone wants to think more about his gift.

Perspective

Most importantly, each walker will leave an "emergency action" flyer whether a person donates or not. The small card gives the common signs of cardiac arrest and has fill-in spaces for the resident to list hospital emergency numbers. Mrs. Rosa showed me a recent letter from a Redwood City woman expressing thanks for a card. Because she had read and kept it, she was able to recognize the early signs of heart attack in her husband and may have saved his life by her prompt action in securing help.

For each 10 to 15 residential walkers there is a captain who reports in turn to an area chairperson. A city chairman does the banking, gets supplies as needed and generally takes charge of the local operation. This year the county goal is $82,000, up some $5,000 from 1978. At one time all solicitation was done on Heart Sunday, the last one in the month. Today, walkers visit neighbors at their convenience. Feb. 25 serves simply as final deadline.

Although February may be the busiest month for Heart Association workers, volunteers are needed to help with public awareness activities throughout the year. Call 692-0981 if you'd like to help. Last November, student nutritionists working under Heart Association auspices presented a program for Millbrae parents.

Tuesday, under direction of Heart Association worker Ann Snyder of Millbrae, two nutritionists participated in the second annual Heart Saver Day at Millbrae's Taylor Intermediate School.

In addition to learning about the nutritional relationship of proper food to healthy hearts, Taylor's seventh and eighth graders took part in a variety of other activities during their regular physical education class time. They assessed personal fitness by doing the 'step" test, checking their pulse rates before and after, with the help of student nurses from College of San Mateo.

"Fitness Unlimited," a Palo Alto group headed by Carolyn Kovacevic and her twin sister, demonstrated aerobic dance steps which were picked up easily by the dance-conscious teens. The huge cut-out walk-through heart designed for last year's event by Taylor teacher Howard McDonnell again was available for "touring." And "Smoking Sam," an exhibit loaned by the Cancer Society, displayed graphically the tar-filled mess one's lungs become from continuous smoking.

Parents and the public were invited to Heart Saver Day activities. Many attended and agreed with Millbrae School District Nurse Betty de Jarnatt, who had conceived the idea, for the day that increasing heart awareness among early teenagers can result only in future adult fitness. I suppose one might consider Heart Saver Day de Jarnatt's valentine to the community. It certainly is a mark of her love and concern for the students she serves in Millbrae.

THE DIET CORNER

By ELISE GENDAR

February is a short month that's ideal for small weight loss.

Those first 10 pounds too many are the most dangerous. Unfortunately, those who possess them view them complacently. "It's only 10 pounds," they say. "Overnight is for people who have 25, 50, or even 100 pounds to lose. I'm not overweight. I'm just heavy."

Great. If that's where the overweight stops, but it seldom does. So if you've "just 10 pounds to lose," I suggest that February is the month for you. By the time March 1 rolls around, you can have the bulk of your small loss out of the way. On St. Patrick's day, you even could be at goal range.

You'll be surprised how your outlook changes with a 10-pound loss. I had a young girl working for me who undertook the 10-pound challenge. Her comment was that she hadn't realized how fat she had felt. It was, she said, "like being a little bit pregnant with no baby to look forward to."

So, how do you do it? With a basic 1,200-calorie per day, nutritionally — balanced diet, that's how. It consists mainly of cutting out the heavy calories and substituting the lighter ones. For example, no beef, lamb or pork. Instead, you eat fish, skinned chicken, veal and cottage cheese. Bread, one slice of it, at breakfast and lunch only. None at night. Lots of vegetables, like asparagus, broccoli, green beans, spinach, lettuce, celery, cucumbers, and green peppers at lunch and dinner.

Augment the evening meal with a half-cup of a vegetable like carrots, beets, squash, peas and cooked onions, tomatoes or pumpkin. Three fruits per day. And that's basically it.

February is a nice round period of time with which to experiment. You can lose between five and eight pounds in the next few weeks. Then whittle way at the remainder. Your 10-pound challenge will have disappeared before you know it.

You'll pick up some great tips on living thin along the way. Like treating yourself to a super special diet lunch. Here's a recipe for just that purpose.

QUICHE LORRAINE

4 ounce canned crabmeat, drained
2 eggs
1 cup evaporated skim milk
dash pepper
2 ounces Swiss or gruyere cheese, cubed
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg

In pyrex pie plate, spread crabmeat. Beat eggs with milk. Add cheese and seasonings. Mix well. Pour over crabmeat. Bake in 375-degree oven for 30 minutes, or until firm. Serve hot. Filling can be mixed, refrigerated and poured over crabmeat just before baking.

Remember, whether your problem is 10 pounds or 100 pounds, I'm here to help you. You can write to me at The Diet Workshop, 2533 Taraval St., San Francisco 94116.

Good morning, good cooks.

Busy days are the time for easy make-ahead meals. Vegetable Casserole Almondine can be made the night before and heated just before serving time. With the addition of French bread or dinner rolls it becomes a complete and well-balanced meal. The casserole is an economical dish that will satisfy the heartiest appetite. Eggplant and zucchini, both in season now, are two of the principal ingredients. Protein is provided by the almonds, cheese and bacon.

Toasted almonds add a special crispness and delightful crunch to this casserole. For an extra flvor and protein boost, add one of the many convenient forms of almonds to any casserole or meatloaf recipe.

VEGETABLE CASSEROLE ALMONDINE

¼ pounds sliced bacon
1 pound zucchini, sliced in ¼-inch rounds
1 pound eggplant, cubed
1 large onion, cut in wedges
1 tablespoon flour
1 can (1 pound) diced tomatoes or 1 can (1 pound) whole canned tomatoes, diced
1 teaspoon minced garlic
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon basil
1 cup slivered almonds, toasted
1 package (6 ounces) sliced Swiss cheese

In 10- to 12-inch skillet, cook ¼-pound bacon until crips. Remove with slotted spoon; crumble bacon. Cook one pound zucchini, one pound eggplant and one large onion in bacon fat in covered skillet over medium-low heat for 15 minutes, shaking pan or stirring often to prevent sticking. Stir in one tablespoon flour, then one pound tomatoes, one teaspoon minced garlic, one teaspoon salt, ¼-teaspoon pepper, and one teaspoon basil.

Layer vegetable mixture, with one cup slivered almonds, cooked bacon and six ounces of sliced cheese, in a two-quart baking dish, ending with bacon and almonds in ring on top. Bake uncovered in 400-degree oven about 15 minutes or until hot in center.

To serve later, cover and refrigerate; to heat, uncover and bake in 400-degree oven about 30 minutes or until hot in center. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Oyster Point Savings Detailed

A consultant Wednesday night told the San Mateo County Harbor District Commissioners, meeting in Half Moon Bay, how they could save up to $624,000 by streamlining or whittling down the Oyster Point Marina project. Some doubts were expressed by others that the money actually would be saved.

Commissioner Jean Flocks pointed out that about $200,000 of the so-called saving was merely postponement, and that if the work were to be done later, it would actually cost more.

General Manager Ron McClellan pointed out the inflation factor and indicated that grant money might be available for some of the projects.

Willis C. Caryl, representing the Daniel, Mann, Johnson and Mendenhall consulting firm, discussed five separate ways to complete the marina. One preliminary phase could be ready by fall.

The commissioners decided they wanted cost figures with the alternative suggestions, and staff and consultant answers to the problems involved.

Caryl said costs could be cut by a simple topping of the road, with a hard surface later, by utilizing the old harbormaster's office, by going overhead rather than underground on some power lines, and by trimming other elements.

Money could be saved by utilizing pilings from the old breakwater, and some phases could be eliminated or set aside, it was indicated.

"We are not the experts," said Commissioner Charles Boerio. "I would like the staff to present costs and plans for a decision, not the problems. We could go on for hours without figures."

General Manager Ron McClellan said he would like to look at ways to maximize income.

"You could put up a 100-unit motel," he said. Every marina with a hotel near a major airport, as the Oyster Point facility would be, makes money on it, he said.

McClellan also said that scaling down the present project by $600,000 might mean having to spend $1.5 million to finish the job later.

He said this would mean ending up with two projects rather than one. He added that he felt grant money was available.

The fishing pier and the park project portions are already subject to grant money, he said.

Scaling the project down would mean that those things couldn't be finished while the money is on hand to do it. Putting off the two would save nothing, he indicated.

The boat slips and parking area are the major income producers, and these construction plans will probably go before the board at the next meeting, it was indicated. They could be completed by fall with prompt action.

The marina is estimated to cost about $10.9 million.

Coastal Commission Trying To Retain Home Control

The California Coastal Commission will battle to keep its permit control over single-family homes in the coastal zone, and support legislative action. Its members, though, differ on just how they will do that.

The commission reacted strongly Tuesday afternoon when informed of bills now before the Legislature, and that the mood of the legislative body might be to reduce some of the commission's powers or areas of control.

Some members wanted to work out compromises, and at least one said the commission could not hold on to everything. Others, including the chairman, noted that the commission's charge in its founding Coastal Act was to protect the coastal areas and that it should be firm in holding its ground.

In the end, the commission instructed its staff to prepare more material for its next meeting.

It voted to ask for an amendment that would exclude from a present bill shorefront properties destroyed by natural calamity, if such things as retaining walls, which would affect the environment, would have to be built should the homes to be replaced. That would mean a permit would have to be sought if the commission has its way.

The commission referred to Sen. Lou Cusanovich, R-Woodland Hills, who has introduced two bills:

• Senate Bill 175 provides that granting or denial of a permit to an owner of private property need not be conditional on dedication of private property for public use, unless just compensation were given.

• Senate Bill 39 excludes the Santa Monica Mountains from full control.

Assemblyman Lou Papan, D-Daly City, has put in a bill which excludes from control a portion of the city of Los Angeles further than 1,000 yards inland from high water known as the Topanga Quadrangle.

Assemblyman Mel Levine, D-Los Angeles, put in a bill which exempts owners of homes destroyed by natural disaster from having to obtain a permit.

All of the bills have been sent to committees.

Commissioner Anthony Ramos declared, "This is the kind of thing we will be up against if we don't have some legislation of our own."

Referring to Proposition 13 and its effects, Ramos said that he didn't want the commission to get into the sort of position the state got into on property taxes where a drastic measure would be passed because nothing had been prepared.

Commissioner Hank Doerfling said the pressure in the Legislature is coming on the public access issue and from small-lot subdivision interests.

Chairman Bradrod Lundborg said that while the commission will move expeditiously to clean up its procedures, he doubted that would "change the political heat."

The heat, he said, is due to the "legitimate effects of the act."

The only things that would cool the heat, Lundborg said, "are actions that will change the effects of the act ... I think the goals were designed from the beginning to produce a certain amount of unhappiness."

Doerfling suggested exclusion from permit necessity of some areas of single-family homes, just as agriculture has some exclusions.

Ruth Andresen said she would like a bill directed to single-family dwellings.

CRIME FIGHTERS

Carl Hillsman, left, a member of the Daly City Exchange Club, and Conrad Pavelias, secretary of the Anti-Crime League of Daly City, were participants in last week's Anti-Crime Week. A festive dinner Sunday concluded the week. At the dinner, Sgt. George Carleton of the Colma Police Department, St. S. N. Bennett of the Broadmoor Police Department and Det. James Mendiara of the Daly City Police Department were honored for their anti-crime efforts.

Best Gets Better

By RICHARD C. MOON

In his book "Modern Board Games," author David Pritchard wrote "Monopoly is too well known to warrant more than a mention." He then proceeded to devote a full chapter to it in which it is referred to as the backbone of the family table-game range of entertainment.

One would have to say that Monopoly is not just a game. It has, over the past 40 years, become an integral part of American life. That may be a pretty strong statement. Nevertheless, I believe it to be true.

Gamesman

We all know the legend surrounding Monopoly and the fact that it is played by millions around the world and has been translated into many languages. It has become such an international game that we now have the World Monopoly Championship, in which players from about 20 countries compete.

The last world event was in 1977 in Monte Carlo and was won by a 31-year-old oil executive from Singapore.

Parker Brothers, publishers of the game, has announced that the next worldwide tournament will be in Bermuda in 1980.

In the United States, the path to the world championship begins with tournaments sponsored by community centers, colleges and other local groups. Winners of these local tournaments are eligible to compete in one of four regional tournaments which Parker sponsors.

Regional events will be in the fall this year, with each regional winner awarded with an expense-paid trip to the U.S. Monopoly Championship, tentatively scheduled for November. Part of the national champion's prize will be the trip to Bermuda for a try at the world title.

Parker Brothers is offering a Monopoly tournament kit free to groups interested in organizing local tournaments in their communities. That is the reason for writing this column at this time. The local tournaments are just around the corner for those who want to participate in the world tourney. The kit includes step-by-step instructions on how to run a tournament and details on how to receive free announcement posters and winner certificates.

If you have a group that is interested, you can get information by writing Monopoly Tournament Director, Parker Brothers, 50 Dunham Road, Beverly, Mass. 01915.

Knights Set Tournament

Tom Curr, tournament director, announced that Marian Council #3773, Knights of Columbus, will hold its 20th annual Invitational Basketball Tournament on Washington's Birthday, Feb. 19, at Westlake Park Gym, 149 Lake Merced Blvd., Daly City, beginning at noon.

Trophies will be awarded to each team at the conclusion of the tournament.

In addition, individual trophies will be awarded to the 10 players chosen on the All Star Team.

The teams participating in thisyear's tournament are Good Shepherd, Holy Angels, Our Lady of Mercy, and Saint Thomas More.

The public can attend all games free of charge.

Report Suggests New Runway as Means of Cutting Airport Noise

The idea of a new runway for San Francisco International Airport — built at an angle to existing landing strips to take noisy aircraft away from cities — surfaced in a progress report Thursday night during the San Mateo County Airport Land Use Committee meeting.

There is no plan to build such a runway.

Committee members, staff members and a consultant working for San Francisco and San Mateo counties agreed, however, that such a runway would offer more chance of reducing jet noise than any minor change.

No one suggested the possible cost.

Several speakers did comment on other proposed methods of mitigating airport noise, listed in a preliminary report done for the two-county airport study group.

The list includes noise abatement procedures already in use, encouragement of airlines to use quieter planes, suggestions of curfews or operational restrictions of various types, and lengthening existing runways.

None of these, they said, offers as much chance of reducing the big airfield's impact on its neighbors as does the proposal of building a new runway.

Committee members also struggled with a proposal for a new hotel adjacent to the Airport Plaza, at the south end of Runway 19.

They challenged a preliminary environmental impact report for the five-story hotel which indicates approval by the Federal Aviation Administration on grounds that the hotel would be "no hazard" to air travel.

Committee member Robert Norris, an airline pilot, commented that previous buildings planned for the same site have been described as hazardous by the FAA's administrator in Washington.

Norris suggested that the hotel developer's consultant take the "no-hazard" ruling back to regional FAA, and ask for comment about the previous "hazardous" ruling.

He said the proposed building is exactly in the path of airliners taking off southward on Runway 19, a departure used only in stormy weather.

Other committee members noted that the Air Line Pilots Association is objecting to the proposed hotel, on grounds that it would create a safety hazard.

They told the hotel developer's consultant the final environmental report should fully address this issue of safety.

TV Channel Switch Denied

The Broadcast Bureau of the Federal Communiacations Commission in Washington, D.C., has refused to grant permission to KCSM-TV, Channel 14, and KDTV, Channel 60, to preceed with the channel exchange until all pending matters regarding the exchange have been resolved by the full commission. According to an FCC spokesman the entire commission will not meet again until Feb. 28.

Stewart Chiefet, manager of KCSM-TV, was told by the chief of bureau, Martin I.Levy, that it would appear that the transfer could not go through before the first week in March, assuming there is favorable action on the part of the whole commission.

Telegrams have been sent off to all seven commissioners by KCSM urging quick action.

There is one possibility for quicker action: a system used by the commission called "circulation" in which each commissioner is given a copy of the proposed action and can vote on it by phone.

Candidates Reveal 'Pet' Issues

By KAREN PETTERSON

Speaking to an audience comprised mostly of their own supporters, nine of the 12 candidates vying for the 11th Congressional District seat vacated by the death of Leo Ryan appeared Friday night at a candidates' forum sponsored by the Concerned Citizens Coalition.

Although the evening produced few surprises, the candidates managed to discuss several issues affecting San Mateo County. They were split on the question of offshore oil drilling here, and on the preservation of Pacifica's Sweeney Ridge as a county, state or national park.

The candidates told their preference for congressional committee assignments, and they each discussed a pet campaign issue'

The only hint of animosity came when Proposition 13 activist Les Kelting called county Supervisor William Royer a "ghost candidate" because he missed the first half of the debate due to a prior commitment, and accused him of opposing the concept of Proposition 13 while maintaining a stance of fiscal responsibility.

Royer also came under attack from another Republican challenger, Dave Welch, who noted that the supervisor continued on the public payroll while campaigning for Congress.

Joe Holsinger and Jackie Speier both resigned from their government jobs,'. Welch said, "and I'm disappointed that my fellow Republican has stayed on the payroll."

Royer countered that he still worked full-time at his supervisorial job. "I'm still holding up my responsibilities as well as anyone elese," he declared.

The oil drilling question saw Republicans Kelting, Royer and Roger Canfield in favor of offshore exploration in San Mateo County, while Democrats George Corey, Curtiss Landers, Holsinger and Ms. Speier were joined by the GOP's Bruce Makar and Welch in their opposition to such drilling.

Canfield and Royer stressed the need for energy as the overriding factor in their stances. Kelting qualified his approval with the statement, ',as long as it doesn't damage the coast."

Corey argued that "there is no evidence that offshore drilling would produce the necessary reserves to meet our needs, so I am opposed to oil derricks off our coast."

The idea of offshore drilling was termed "crazy" by Holsinger and "stupid" by Landers, as Holsinger pointed out that Mexico has untapped onshore reserves that should be explored. He urged U.S. support for that exploration.

Makar agreed with the idea of oil exploration in Mexico, adding that it could provide jobs for many Mexicans who come to this country illegally to look for work.

Ms. Speier's major concern was that "we don't see an oil spill like the one in Santa Brarbara", as a result of offshore drilling, and she also questioned why no drilling was proposed off San Francisco's coastline.

Welch, noting that it was hard to be the last in a long line of candidates to speak, drew laughter and applause when he suggested that "we drill for oil on Sweeney Ridge and send the shah to Mexico." He added that he felt it was more logical to continue drilling on existing onshore sites.

Most of the candidates favored-posing the Sweeney Ridge question to the voters of Pacifica.

Corey asserted that the area should be preserved "simply because it's beautiful," while Kelting called it "a fog-shrouded ridge', and said that if anyone wants to buy it, "we should let 'em, but don't use taxpayers' money."

Belmont police consultant Canfield led off the evening with a shotgun delivery of a treatise on property rights and human needs, which he said had been "overlooked in favor of the snail darter and the mud duck." He also urged abolishing the Environmental Protection Agency.

Corey, a Millbrae attorney, took on the proposed constitutional amendment to balance the budget, expressing concern over the idea of a constitutional convention.

"The constitution embodies the great thinking of mankind in terms of liberties," he said, and warned that a convention could open the door to revision of the bill of rights. "There are other ways to req.uire a balanced budget," he said, "because the House of Representatives has power over government spending."

Proven know-how in dealing with governmental bureacracies was stressed by former Ryan aide Holsinger, who noted that he had a great deal of experience in that area' "I also have experience in the development area," he said, "having worked as a designer and developer of industrial parks."

Kelting continued his Proposition 13 hardline stance against taxes and spending. He is still trying to "send a message to Washington" and he contends that he is the best person to carry that message.

Government spending and delivery of services was the keynote of Landers' presentation. The Pacifica school board member pointed out that it costs local government $1.60 to deliver $1 worth of service, whereas the federal government would spend $5 to deliver that same service.

Makar, a Burlingame real estate agent, pushed for action on the part of government.

"Now is the time we have to act, and make the decisions," he said, quoting Edmund Burke's line about evil taking over when good men do nothing.

Supervisor Royer, who was represented by San Carlos councilwoman Pat Bennie during the early part of the evening, also pushed for action.

"We have to get involved and get something done," he said, noting that the mood of the Congress now is one of action.

Ryan's legislative assistant Ms. Speier decried the high cost of housing in San Mateo County and said she favored federal assistance for young people buying homes. "We also have too many conflicting, overlapping government agencies, and regulations that are too vague," she said.

Welch, an economist, said he favored restoration of economic incentives to get the economy back on an even keel.

"A 10 percent increase in wages now results in a 16.5 percent increase in taxes," he pointed out.

However, he said, it was possible to have a balanced budget and still maintain balanced growth.

The special election, necessitated by the death of Leo Ryan in Guyana in November, is slated for March 6. If no candidate pulls more than 50 percent of the vote, a runoff election will be held April 3 between the top vote-getters of each party.

Candidates who did not appear Friday night are Toby Plough, Democrat; Wilson Branch, Peace & Freedom; and Nicholas Kudrovzeff, American Independent.

JA to Set Up Shop in D.C.

Serramonte Shopping Center will be host to Junior Achievement's eighth annual trade fair this weekend, Feb. 17 and 18. More than 200,000 persons are expected to visit the fair, which opens at 10 a.m. Saturday and continues to 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

Some 1,000 area Junior Achievers and more than 250 adult advisers have been involved in preparations for the many and varied displays which will be set up on the mall by the mini-companies for the showing and sale of their products.

JA District Manager Dave Martella points out that the event is an opportunity for the public to get a first-hand view of the JA operation while meeting the achievers and seeing their products on display.

More than $5,000 in JA products were bought by the public at last year's fair. Achiever-managed booths at the fair will offer items ranging from hand-painted planters to digital clocks for sale. Orders also may be placed for home delivery.

Sixty of the 135 JA companies in this year's JA program will have booths at the fair. Junior Achievement's unique approach has been since 1919 to help teenagers organize businesses on a small scale modeled after the nation's corporations.

The companies meet for two hours one night a week during the school year. Last year over 200,000 high school students were involved in the program nationwide.

The trade fair is free at the center just off Highway 280 at Serramonte Boulevard in Daly City.

Serramonte Seniors Look to College

By GENNY HOM
Commissioner of Outside Publicity

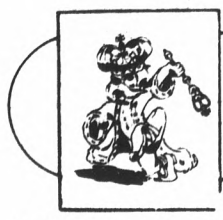
First semester finals have been completed at Serramonte High School. I'd like to wish everyone the best of luck on their finals and remember, Regents, only two more quarters are left in the school year.

One of the many purposes of the California Scholarship Federation is to help members of the club become acquainted with colleges and universities in the Bay Area through field trips.

Recently, the Serramonte chapter of CSF visited the University of California at Berkeley.

At Berkeley, the students were divided into groups and given a tour of the campus. The students went up in the world famous Campanile tower, saw the Moffit Undergraduate library, and classes in action. After the tour the students were free to visit departments, go shopping in the ASUC store, see the museum or just enjoy the atmosphere of the college.

All who went this field trip got a closer look at what the campus is like and this will help them decide whether they want to attend Berkeley after they leave Serramonte.



The Regent

Show your great Serramonte spirit and buy a pompon. Serramonte's freshman class are selling red and black pompons for 50 cents. There is a limited supply so get yours now. Contact any freshman or get them during lunch in the cashier's office.

Last year, Serramonte's Executive Board developed an outstanding club award. Clubs are reminded that this award will be given again this year to the club that best meets the criteria set by the board. At the end of the year, the outstanding club will receive an engraved plaque.

Recently a group of Serramonte's student body officers attended a leadership conference, at which school student leaders discussed the problems they had with students. The representatives of each school were asked to compose a list of five negative and five positive things about their schools. Attending from Serramonte were Imogene Mamoe, Diana Law, Carol Hall, Shirley Ong, and Daphne Jackson. Mr. Morosi, director of student activities, also attended.

Serramonte has a new policy regarding "F" grades on report cards. Any freshman or sophomore with three or more F's were put on a special list. All students on this list will not be admitted to class until their parents or guardians come to school with them.

Serramonte's Career center has been moved. It now is between the homemaking room and the sewing room. I'll write more about the career center in next week's column.

Serramonte's senior class has left its mark. A group of class of 1979 members have worked on a mural in Ms. Haun's office. Ms. Haun is the senior counselor. More on the Senior mural and the senior class will be fetured in later columns.

Serramonte's Latinos Unidos sponsored a successful Valentine's Disco and Salsa. Kino Novela entertained as the DJ. Prizes were given for the best dancing and all who went to the dance had a terrific time.

Luanda Westley and Daria Wiggins, the senior and junior class presidents, have organized a prom committee. Anyone wanting to help plan this year's prom should join. Contact Luanda for details.

He Missed Death by Sheer Chance

Pay Less Shift Manager Still Grieves

By JACK RUSSELL

"We used to talk about it often at nights. But we never thought it could happen. After all, we were only two blocks from the police station and Albertson's is open 24 hours next door."

The speaker was Rob McClary of Half Moon Bay, the night manager of Pay Less Drug Store in San Mateo, where three of his friends were slain Sunday night in a still unsolved murder.

For the first time in a year, McClary had not been on duty to close the store on a Sunday night. He had traded the shift with his close friend and assistant, Mike Olson, that night. Olson was one of the three employees shot to death by a robber or robbers.

"I had a strange feeling that night that something might be wrong, so I called right after closing time. I couldn't get through but I thought it might be a computer problem. Then Mike's wife called me a little later and said that he hadn't called her either and she was worried.

"I tried again but I couldn't get through, so I called the police station. They told me to get right over. I think I made it from Half Moon Bay in 12 minutes," he said.

Speaking in a choked British accent Thursday night, McClary described how shocked he was at the discovery.

"I just turned in my keys. I didn't see how I could ever close a store again. My wife and I almost decided to pack it up and go back to Great Britain. But management has been very supportive and I am going to talk with them again next week," he said. McClary has been with the firm for two years and has risen up through the ranks through management training.

"Mike had taken management training also and he had just been promoted after working in the most difficult job in the store. He was a grand fellow and he loved the forests. He was always taking trips to the wilderness," McClary said.

McClary attended the funeral services Wednesday for Tracy Anderson and William Baumgartner, Hillsdale High School students, who were murdered along with Olson.

"Please mention that we are starting a fund for Mike Olson's 1-year-old daughter, Amy. The money can be sent to the Amy Olson Fund, c/o Bank of America account 8243183, Fremont branch," said the grieving McClary, who missed death himself by a stroke of fate.

Aging Brings Change

By D. R. BARNETT, DVM

QUESTION: We have a small terrier named "Pinky." She is seven years old and seems to be in good health although she is thinner than when she was younger. She eats well and sleeps a lot. The thing we notice now is that she has developed a different sound when she barks — a hoarseness almost like asthma. Do dogs get asthma?

H.P.

ANSWER: Dogs can develop an allergic bronchitis, which is similar to human asthma, although the signs are different than those you have described for "Pinky." I would recommend you have her examined by your veterinarian to see if there is really a problem or if it is just a change due to aging.

Animal Forum

QUESTION: Are flea collars good for cats? We had a cat once, but it got fleas and my mom wouldn't get a flea collar because she said he might get caught on a fence. Could this happen?

G.R.

ANSWER: A cat can get a flea collar, or any collar for that matter, caught on fence, a tree branch, or other similar objects. This is very unlikely, however, unless the collar is improperly put on, i.e. too loose, in which case he can easily get hung up on protruding objects. Flea collars provide good protection against the fleas and can be worn if they are tolerated by the cat. Some cats are allergic to the collars and develop redness, irritation and scabs around the neck from scratching. Very rarely a cat is sensitive to the insecticide in the collar and so it could get sick from it, which can result in salivation and often vomiting and diarrhea. In either of these two instances a cat should not wear a flea collar. There are many excellent powders and sprays available through your veterinarian that do an excellent job of flea control. If you do not want your cat to wear a collar, or if he can't wear one, these products should be used instead.

'RF' Here Means Trivia, Trivia, Trivia

"RF is for Ron Fimrite, author of an outstanding collection of stories about the wonderful world of sports in the San Francisco Bay Area."

"RF is also for Rucker-Fuller, for over 100 years a San Francisco tradition in the design, planning and furnishing of offices." Rucker-Fuller has brought forth a collection of Ron Fimrite's stories calling it the "Way to Go." It's fun to read.

Here we meet, once again, Pappy Waldorf, the football coach, and Joe DiMaggio and Jackie Jensen and Frankie Albert. Here we are given a chance to relive the pitching duels between Juan Marichal and Sandy Koufax. We are reminded of that agonizing moment in 1968 when an umpire ruled out Giant star, Dick Dietz, and thereby gave Don Drysdale a tie for the most consecutive scoreless games by a major league pitcher.

Samuel Chandler

For the old-timer and for the fanciers of sports and history, Ron Fimrite presents a chapter called Trivia Trivia Trivia. Here are 19 questions about players and events we once knew. "Who broke Dizzy Dean's toe with a line drive in the 1937 All-Star game? In the seventh game of the 1946 series, Enos Slaughter, who was on first base, scored on a hit to left center field. Who hit the ball? In 1950, the American League season leader in stolen bases had just 15, the fewest in major league history. Who was he?"

But the trivia does not stop with sports. Fimrite wants to know what river was crossed by Eliza in "Uncle Tom's Cabin." What was the name of the silent film in which John Barrymore played Captain Ahab? In "One Man's Family," who played the part of Teddy? Who were the two quarterbacks with the initials Y.A.T. who played football in Yankee Stadium?

Fimrite wrote most of the stories in "Way to Go" for publication in Sports Illustrated while he was working out of New York City. But, says he, I have proved that "you can't take the Bay Area out of the boy. Quite frankly, I don't ever want the Bay Area taken out of me or me out of it. This is home, the roots. I love it."

His book, although an anthology for sports buffs in a history book, different from the history texts used in school, but still a history, a sort of social history where San Franciscans are pictured at play. Here is the records of the boys from shantytowns and those from the sandlots who became stars. Here the rooting sections sit still for their portraits; here the thoughts of the players are recorded alongside those of the coaches and umpires.

Fimrite has been named a "perceptive, knowledgeable and honest writer." Bob Lurie called him forceful and enjoyable to read. Prescott Sullivan said, "Fimrite has all the tools most valued in the trade. Insight and objectivity, blended with a rich mixture of humor and enthusiasm."

Fimrite's book is a pleasure to read. It's a sports book, a history book, a Bay Area classic. We'll put it in the California history collection of the Daly City Public Library where it will be among the important chronicles of life in the unmatchable San Francisco Bay Area.

INFLATION FIGHTING IDEAS

A Safeway service in support of suggestions from the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs

"Check Out Rain Checks."

INFLATION FIGHTING ideas

The U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs suggests that Rain Checks can be a very important inflation fighting weapon. A Rain Check makes it possible for you to take advantage of a price reduction on an advertised special which you might otherwise miss.

If a supermarket is "out of stock" on an advertised special, Rain Checks entitle customers to buy the advertised item at the advertised price when it's back in stock!

Although Safeway tries very hard not to be out of an advertised item, we do have a long-standing Rain Check policy. So, if Safeway is ever out of an advertised special, say "Rain Check, please" and help us help you fight inflation!

Next week's Inflation Fighting Idea: "BE AN 'EGGS' PERT"

...together, we can be INFLATION FIGHTERS!

OPEN Safeway will be OPEN as usual Monday, Feb. 19th, (Washington's Birthday Celebration Day)

Items and prices in this ad are available February 14, 1979, thru February 20, 1979, at all Safeway Stores in the following counties: *Solano, Napa, Sonoma, Marin, Contra Costa, Alameda, San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Monterey and Santa Cruz. *Prices not effective in Vacaville or Fairfield. Park Plans

The planning phase of Daly City's Lincoln Park is about to get under way.

"Now that the land acquisition phase is nearly completed, it's time to get down to the grass roots and determine what type of activities the surrounding neighborhood desires," said Albert Kane, chairman of the city's Parks and Recreation Commission.

The commission reviewed the applications submitted from individuals residing in Census Tract 6004 expressing a desire to assist in the park planning process and, as a result, has appointed the following:

Luis Abila, Harold Calder, Virgel Davis, Daniel Gilbrech, Frank Karavos, Knud Knudsen, Rose Martin and Leslie Whitlock.

The park planning committee is an ad hoc committee of the Parks and Recreation Commission and will report and make recommendations to the commission. The initial meeting will be held at the War Memorial Community Center Feb. 21 at 7:30 p.m.

It is anticipated that once the planning phase is completed, cost estimates will be established so that future funding may be applied for, Kane added.

Marian KofC Fetes Ladies

Marian Council 3773, Knights of Columbus, will have its second annual Ladies Appreciation Dinner Thursday at the Broadmoor Community Center, 87th and Washington streets, Colma. No-host cocktails at 6:30 p.m. will be followed by dinner at 7:30.

A film supplied by the Supreme Council, "A Salute to the Ladies," will be shown prior to the dinner.

FEB. 14th IS VALENTINE'S DAY

Cupid's Day Spirit To Delight Hearts

Come Valentine's Day, your sweetheart will be head over heels in love if you treat her to dinner at SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S. Handsome owner JIM SNIADECKI has gone all out in the spirit of "Cupid's day" and decorated his Redwood City restaurant throughout to delight the hearts of all. MIKE GUZMAN will bring in a trio and vocalist to entertain. The regular menu of entree favorites will be featured at no increase in price ... Did you know that more than a dozen different kinds of pizzas are available in three different sizes at ROMANO'S Italian and Seafood restaurant in Rockaway Beach? All are also prepared for take-out, as are other menu items. During spring and summer, Owner ENRICO ROMANO says pizza makes a big hit with people picnicking on the coastside beaches ... Those three easy-going gents who own and operate BEARDSLEY'S in Burlingame, JACK O'BRIEN, LES HYLTON and PAT FINNEGAN, are really generous with those hot hors d'oeuvres which are available at the bar every day, such as the braised short ribs in marinara sauce. Delicious and so plentiful.

Home Baked Pies Receive Taste Raves

JOHN & KATHY'S is a place in South San Francisco just waiting to be "discovered" for home-cooking style lunch and dinner. Owner KATHY WIMSATT does the cooking and bakes all the pies (some days as many as 15 or 20). Her pies were featured recently on Channel 5 TV Weekday "Magazine," and Food Editor Bob Hershfeld proclaimed them "the best apple pies in the Bay Area. "TIL" is host in the bar-lounge, where there's dancing to live music on Friday nights, ably assisted by curvaceous JANIE ... ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, in the heart of San Francisco's Geary Street "Theater Row," is a romantic spot for Valentine's Day dining. You relax in a sumptuous setting of red brick, rich wood paneling and exquisite tapestries, then feast on savory prime ribs or one of Rosebud's famed continental specialties, priced from $6.95 ... Noticed a large group of gents sitting around one of the round tables in BAYHILL LOUNGE the other day, having what appeared to be an informal business meeting while lunching. Later, one of them said they meet here just about every week to talk over mutual problems as independent general contractors. Lunch is served Mondays through Fridays. Cocktails, naturally, with dancing to INDEED Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights from 9 p.m.

It's easy to celebrate Chinese New Year with Chinese food right in the comfort of your own home just by calling GONG'S Chinese restaurant in South San Francisco. Owner JOHN CHIANG also specializes in delivery and take-out service. "Less frills and more taste" is his slogan, and a great number of people must like it because he reports business is good ... Regular patrons at PHIL LEHR'S STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, are delighted to see dapper Charles Guerra back as general manager. Guerra's gracious hospitality and encyclopedic knowledge of gourmet cooking have made him one of San Francisco's most popular restaurant personalities ... "Bright Lights' " recent item about the famous recipe clam chowder at VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant being available for take-home by the pint or quart at the adjoining VINCE'S SEAFOOD DEPOT on Fridays has apparently triggered a lot of business. Seems the soup sells out so fast, it's almost necessary to get there early. Suggestion: Order it at Vince's restaurant — they need to be sure to have enough to serve the lunch and dinner patrons also.

Double Reason for Big Celebration

Special observance of Chinese New Year takes place in conjunction with celebration of the Fifth Anniversary of the distinctive KEE JOON'S Penthouse restaurant in Burlingame. Owner-host KEE JOON expresses appreciation to friends and patrons and offers a complimentary glass of champagne with each dinner during the anniversary celebration Feb. 11-15 ... From steaks and seafood to continental cuisine, there's everything to pamper the gourmet palate at the GUST family's restaurant complex, NICK'S, THE MOONRAKER and CAPTAIN CHARLES, with all three overlooking the Pacific Ocean at Rockaway Beach. Also, don't forget there's dancing at Nick's to the JIMMY PAYER combo on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings, with vocals by favorite balladeer MARY ANN HAY ... A dish with plenty of zip at LA PINATA Mexican restaurant in Burlingame is the Flautas, three crispy rolled corn tortillas filled with shredded beef, topped with sour cream and guacamole. Open seven days a week ... NORM LARSON will add delicious baked ham with pineapple and candied yams to the bountiful all-you-can-eat buffet dinner on Valentine's Day at the KING'S TABLE in Redwood City. The regular $3.85 price will apply ... Jerry and Dolores Guart, owners-operators of the Touch of Class, a neat little drinkery-dancery-funnery on Third Avenue in downtown San Mateo now celebrating its third anniversary, are tossing a big party on Valentine's Day for all their friends and patrons. Join them for a real fun evening Wednesday for a free buffet, etc.

How Much for BART Safety? How Safe Is Safe?

It's been three weeks since the Bay Area Rapid Transit's transbay tube was closed to 60,000 commuters a day after the fire on Jan. 17.

Since that time, a great deal of attention has been focused on BART, and most of it has been demanding to know why the fire happened (human error, it was established) and how it can be prevented from happening again.

The Public Utilities Commission, with the general consent of the public, has been making one safety demand of the system after another —even to the latest requirement that BART passengers take part in fire drills in the tube.

The public for the most part just nods its head. Asked how safe a system people want, most people are going to say, "The safest possible."

But one former BART engineer wants the public to be more specific, to give the a number ("10 times safer than a car, 100 times safer than a car") and to understand the price they will have to pay in money and in service for that degree of safety.

The PUC is asking all of this, he says, of a rapid transit system that has never killed a passenger, is the safest in the world and remains hundreds of times safer than the family car as a means of transportation in the Bay Area.

"It's possible to build a 100 percent safe car; the problem is that it won't move," Geoff Fernald, 34, of Belmont, said in an interview wih The Times.

An electrical engineer in BART's vehicle engineering group from 1973 to 1977, Fernald believes it's time for the PUC to ask the public how much they want to pay for how much safety.

"Here's my recommendation. Put a price tag, a cost factor, on each safety measure and have the PUC ask the public which ones it wants. . . ."

The PUC, he believes, should also go to the public to establish a figure, a number of times safer than a private car as a means of transportation, and require that level of safety from BART.

"The public has to face facts that if BART kills a carload of passengers and is still 10 times safer than cars — as sad as it is — it's still a safe system. It's one of the trade-offs. . . . If you want people killed one at a time, cars are great.

"BART and the PUC people are afraid to talk like this. Only because I'm outside BART now can I risk my reputation by saying these things."

Fernald believes that the public is quite capable of making this kind of decision about safety vs. service vs. cost on BART because they make the same decisions in their private lives. As an example, he describes the kind of fire protection people put in their own homes.

"House sprinkler systems are too costly; too few houses burn down to make it pay. Enough houses burn down for people to buy fire insurance. It's not that their lives are only worth $200 a year; it's just that that's the risk they are willing t take."

He believes most passengers "put the highest priority on service, as good as they get from their cars or almost as good, at about the cost of the car and about 10 to 100 times safer than their cars."

If the PUC would make demands of BART in these terms of reference, he says, BART could be held accountable for a specific level of service and safety.

But, he adds, the public has to know the costs of what they are asking. "A system that costs less than a private car and one that operates in the black is somewhat contradictory."

The effort to balance safety and service (reliability), he says, is a constant engineering concern in any system like BART.

"But we need public guidance on the time and money which should be spent on safety service. What level of safety and service is required? It would help for technical people to have that information.

"Right now, there are no guidelines. . . . It's total safety after a crisis like this one. Reliability happens when they're not working on safety.

"A good engineer will make a fairly safe system that's highly reliable," he says, noting that BART isn't reliable yet because it was the first of its kind. . — — —..

Because the PUC hasn't established any specific level of safety that BART must meet, he says, BART is constantly responding to the PUC's order for this safety measure or that one.

"BART has a whole staff of 'question answerers' which makes it top-heavy with administration. . . . This 'pickiness' may cause BART to ignore more relevant safety needs."

Direction, he believes, is what the PUC should be giving BART, but in terms that would allow BART to be accountable. Not just meeting one crisis here and another there.

Potential risks must be balanced by other needs, he says, and the people who must do the balancing "are being given too many different directions, pounded on the head with them, and are forced to let other things, possibly more important things, slide."

Federal Safety Official Observes

BART Could Face More Mask Trouble

By BONNY RODDEN

WASHINGTON — BART's new respirators, purchased to make fighting a subway fire less hazardous, could leak and make firefighters vomit or become violently ill, according to a safety official for the federal government.

After Oakland firefighter William Elliott died last month when his 30-minute oxygen supply ran out before he could escape from the toxic smoke of a BART tunnel fire, the transit system spent $157,000 for 45 four-hour oxygen units, BART safety supervisor Eugene Nunn

By buying the German-made Drager negative pressure oxygen masks, BART "erred in judgment from what we know today," said Thomas Seymour, director of the Office of Fire Protection Engineering Standards in the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

"Anyone who spends their money buying negative pressure respirators will be wasting their money. They will not give them the protection they need," said Seymour.

The face masks BART bought have less pressure inside the mask than outside. If this type of mask does not fit properly and a gap breaks the seal, the air outside will be sucked inside the mask.

With positive pressure masks, "the cost is not that much different for 100 times better protection," Seymour said.

However, no one has built a positive pressure mask which lasts longer than one hour and has been approved by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health, which certifies respirators.

"All the researchers who have looked at this have found that any negative pressure unit has the potential for someone to get ill or worse and I don't mean because they run out of air but because it leaks," said Seymour.

Seymour said he could not understand why BART did not buy one-hour positive pressure units and make better plans for evacuating passengers and relieving tired firemen within one hour.

He added that firefighters cannot physically hold up carrying victims and heavy equipment in intense heat for four hours.

He also noted that BioMarine Industries, Inc., a company in Malvern, Pa., has submitted a four-hour positive pressure unit to NIOSH, which should be approved in six weeks if there are no problems.

Nunn said BioMarine had submitted a bid to BART before the fire, but the company did not have a federally approved respirator when BART was forced to buy a longer duration unit.

BART decided to buy the four-hour masks "primarily because the fire departments have decided that they want four-hour masks," said Nunn.

He also questioned the federal government's tests on the positive and negative pressure masks, saying he was not sure whether the calculations really showed that positive masks were much safer.

In response to Seymour's remarks, Nunn said, "That may be what they think, but that's not necessarily what the firefighters think."

He said firefighters have complained that the positive masks must be turned off manually instead of shutting off automatically as the negative masks do when they are lifted.

Some of the federal government officials who test the respirators feel so strongly about the benefits of the positive pressure masks that they are pushing for a proposed regulation which would force all private employers to buy only positive pressure masks after July 1, 1980. All companies would have to have only positive pressure masks by 1983.

If the regulation is approved by the Department of Labor, California fire departments would have to comply.

Richard Renk, who tests respirators for NIOSH, described an experiment in which a one-eighth hole was pierced in a face mask. The positive pressure mask absorbed only one-fifty-thousandth the amount of sodium chloride that was outside while the negative pressure mask absorbed one-ninth the amount.

Renk noted how easily masks can leak because they have to fit all sizes of faces which change texture with perspiration. Women are the most difficult to fit, he said.

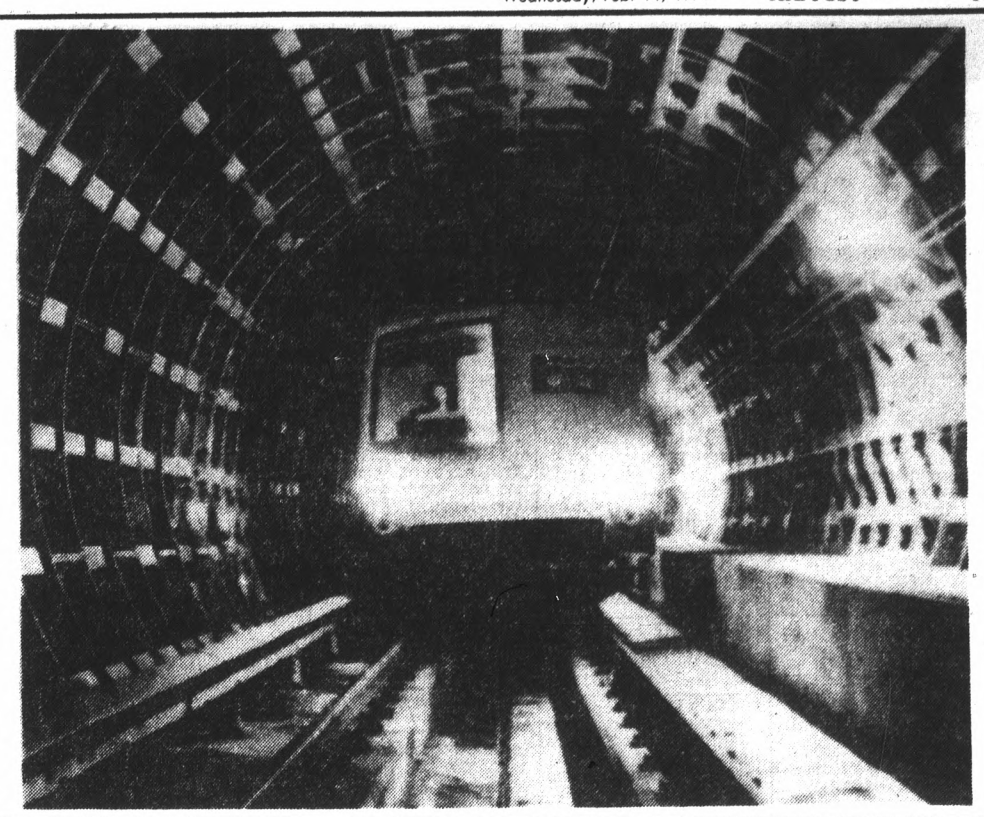
If someone got "a pretty good whiff" of chlorine gas because of a leak, "it would take about one or two breaths and you would stop breathing," Renk said.

But BART officials and several fire departments are wary of the proposed requirements. Switching to positive masks would cost them thousands of dollars.

Nunn said BART would try to get itself exempted from the requirement if it should pass because BART's respirators would be used for fires in tunnels and the requirement concerns structural fires.

But Renk said there was even more of a need for positive pressure masks in tunnels because escaping would be much more difficult if a leak occurred in a mask.

Nunn said BART wanted to be exempt to "save the taxpayers money."



Mental Illness Discussion

The difficulties of re-entering a community after treatment as a mental patient will be discussed Sunday during an 11 a.m. meeting of the Association for the Mentally Ill of Napa State Hospital.

The speaker will be Jack Cunningham, who heads the hospital's Advisory Board of the Mentally Disordered.

Association chairman Frank Morain of San Mateo said the meeting will be held at the hospital's Rehabilitation Center.
